The past century or so has witnessed some of the most remarkable archaeological discoveries of the Christian era. No single discipline has contributed as much as archaeology to the interpretation and delight of reading the Bible.

However, the discipline has had its embarrassing moments as well. For example, in 1929 Sir Leonard Wooley declared while excavating in Mesopotamia, "I have found the flood!" Unfortunately for him and for the discipline of archaeology, there were embarrassed faces when other layers of flood sediment turned up at various strata throughout the area. Others have claimed to have found the location of the garden of Eden, the ark of the covenant and the like, but such claims must not be confused with real and legitimate discoveries throughout the ancient Near East.

The real role of archaeology is not to prove the Bible, for that kind of proof is available only in certain deductive sciences such as mathematics and logic. On the contrary, the role of archaeology is: (1) to supply cultural, epigraphic, and artefactual materials that provide the background for accurately interpreting the Bible, (2) to anchor the events of the biblical text in the history and geography of the times, and (3) to build confidence in the revelation of God where the truths of Scripture impinge on historical events.

Over the last century or so, archaeology has strengthened the case for biblical reliability. The myth of missing people that were mentioned in the Bible, but not known in history, is just one area. For example, it had been fashionable in some circles for many years to ridicule Isaiah 20:1 for its allusion to "Sargon king of Assyria." Excavations of Nineveh had seemingly revealed all the kings of Assyria, but there was no Sargon. The Bible must have gotten it wrong. However, in 1843, Paul Emile Botta found a virgin site northeast of Nineveh, later excavated by the University of Chicago with details published in the 1930s. Sargon had built his own capital there in 717 B.C. His son, however, moved the capital back to Nineveh, so the site was lost as was Sargon's name. Now Sargon is one of the best known Assyrian monarchs. (Kaiser Jr., W. C. (2007). How Has Archaeology Corroborated the Bible?)

In these days of intense scrutiny, and often rejection of the Christian faith, it is imperative that we know that God has been and will continue to be active in this world. As you grow and validate your faith, you remain a committed follower of Christ. You also will be able to boldly voice the reasons for which you have hope. -Dennis Baker

Welcome Guests!

We're glad that you are here! We hope that you experience the presence of God in our assembly.

During our Sunday morning services we do have a volunteer staffed nursery, for children up to age 3. There is also a training room, located next to the sound room, for parents with young children to use during any service.

If you have questions, feel free to approach one of our ushers, ministers, or elders. We hope that you will complete a visitor card, found in the back of our songbooks, and drop it into the basket when it is passed by. Thank you!

Sermon Summaries

Speaker: Dennis Baker

AM: From Vow to Wow – Ephesians 5:22-33

The union of a man and a woman is the crown of Creation. It is no wonder that Satan's first salvo in the attack on God's realm was an attack on the man and the woman. Divide them and chaos will ensue. It is for this reason that the Church of Christ must be a place where the chaos of the fall is corrected by straight talk as a way to restore harmony.

PM: Where is God? – John 16:31-33

"I have told you these things to keep you from stumbling." (John 1:16) Challenges to faith come from everywhere. Many young people have gone to college as strong believers, only to be weakened or crushed by the climate of skepticism, anti-theism and pluralism. Tonight we will blitz the scriptures to give a realistic answer to the question, "Where Is God?"

Family News

Cradle Roll Teachers and Helpers are desperately needed. Without additional teachers & helpers we will soon be forced to close the classroom on Wednesday evenings. All children's classes require a minimum of 2 adults per session. If you are interested in helping or learning more about this need please see Jim Karkosky.

See Katie Towell for details and/or questions.

My thanks to all of you who bought school supplies and for your financial support for our 2016 back to school drive benefiting James Sales Elementary school. Lakeview donated over 800 hundred pencils, 700 erasers, 700 glue sticks, 400 notebooks, and 50+ backpacks.

Thank you, Randy Montgomery

There will be a planning meeting for Trunk or Treat on Sunday Oct 2nd, at 5:00PM in Room 4. If you are interested in helping with this event, please plan to attend this meeting.

Please take a few minutes to welcome our new member, James Monarko. James is Charlotte May's son, he placed membership last week.

Prayer Requests

Is anyone among you suffering? He should pray. Is anyone in good spirits? He should sing praises. -James 5:13

- Drew Thompson, Pam Lewis' brother, was recently diagnosed with prostate cancer, which has metastasized. He will not be seeking treatment. Pam and her sister will be seeing him, and do appreciate your prayers.
- Marie Lanham is asking for prayers for a 6 year old girl from her neighborhood that went missing. They are searching for her now.
- Both Pat Brewer and her friend, Joanna, have recovered enough to go home. Please continue to pray for their recovery.
- Ed Liebig is requesting prayers for Gilbert, who had a blood clot in his leg and a tumor removed. He is recovering at St. Joe's hospital.
- Scott Hurst's mother, Marne, had a stroke and is on oxygen at the hospital. She has a DNR in place. His father is having some health problems and having a difficult time dealing with his wife's health. Scott himself is also feeling ill, so please pray for their entire family.
- Mitch Watts is struggling with depression and needs prayers.
- Ward Ellsworth, Bob's brother, is improving. Please continue to keep him in your prayers.
